

ATLANTIS

The stories of Atlantis are many, but sadly nearly all are fictional novels, and from a historical point of view complete garbage. The popular consensus of opinion is that Atlantis was a myth, but then they said that about Troy, Pompeii, Herculaneum, and fabulous Island civilizations in the Mediterranean Sea until they were rediscovered. So many events are promoted to myth category when the supposedly wise scholars of the day cannot explain them. Atlantis falls in to this category and therefore is placed in to the too hard basket of myth.

Many of the great brains in the Universities insist that Atlantis, if it existed at all was in the Mediterranean, and that Plato was a confirmed liar about this. A German gentleman, Otto Muck by name, who incidentally developed the schnorkel for submarine U Boats, was fascinated by the stories of Plato. This man decided to try, (and succeeded in) depth sounding the area where Plato's map of this fabulous island continent was supposed to have been. Muck found a ridge in the middle of the Atlantic Ocean exactly where Plato stated the island continent shores had been. Following this ridge with sounding equipment, he followed and traced a somewhat erratic course to arrive back at his starting point. Taking the plotted course, and superimposing this upon Plato's map of Atlantis, Muck's persistence and patience was rewarded. Both Plato's map of the island continent, and Muck's plotted course were almost identical in every detail. Was this just a coincidence? I hardly think so.

The United States also plotted this area, as did three British ships, and all got the same results. I hardly think there could be that many coincidences about that one particular spot. Later again there were tests of the ocean floor, which revealed types of rock, sand, and gravel that only happens on dry land. There were also deep gouges, which give every indication that they were old riverbeds when the land was above the waves. Tests on the sediment in these ravines prove this to be so. There is an entirely different sediment between a riverbed, and the Ocean floor.

In his book Atlantis, Ignatius Donnelly claims "Genesis contains the history of Atlantis". I strongly urge those interested to read this book as it puts forward much testimony almost impossible to refute in support of Atlantis. The support for the Genesis stories bears much thinking about also. In my opinion I am certain that a great amount of these facts are true.

Ignatius Donnelly also states that he suspects Sun worship was handed down from Atlantis, to religions like the sun worshippers in Egypt. This was not so. The learned Atlantean scholars and the early Egyptians were quite well aware that the Sun was the gateway to the energy of God into our Solar system, and their worship was not to the Sun, but to the God that powered it. As it was the only visible tangible icon of God they had, they simply used this as focusing point, just as Christians use a cross. They did NOT think the Sun was God. This is the same as the Roman church having statues of Mary. She is revered as the pathway and Mother through which Jesus came, but she is not classified as Jesus or God. In other words they are something to focus on that is tangible when praying, but all the time praying through these icons to the higher God. Over a period of time this so called Sun worship became part of the Scholastic view, simply because the brains of the day not knowing the truth put 2 and 2 together and came up with anything except four. This erroneous conclusion of Sun worship was the only explanation they could come up with; therefore over a period of time it was pronounced to be fact by the academic ignorance of the day.

Donnelly also writes an interesting version of Noah's ark, which is too logical to dismiss easily.

He claimed this occurred in the Atlantic sinking period. Once again his facts and figures make great sense, and unlike the scholars of today, he explains more questions than he creates. It is quite possible that the ark floated right across the Atlantic Ocean if a disaster of that magnitude occurred. A most interesting thing is that stories of the great flood abound in every nation on earth. The general time of the event and the principle is exactly the same, only the names changing. How could this be? The only logical answer is that it was true, and each nation had good communications with each other at that particular time. How else would the stories be so much alike? I have had arguments that if communications were so good, how was it all forgotten. Imagine this situation. If all transistors were manufactured in one place on earth, then it is quite likely that all the expertise to construct them would be there also. If that place disappeared in a great earthquake, do you think the communications of the earth would continue just the same? It would for a while, but as the need for replacements transistors were needed and not forthcoming, communications would gradually die. If the manufacturing expertise and equipment was gone who could possibly make the replacements. I myself know the principle of transistors, but making one is quite a different story and way outside my limited capabilities.

The reaction from the holocaust of the Atlantean disaster would have created clouds, and terrible storms. Also you must understand that a country the size of Atlantis sinking virtually overnight would create enormous tidal waves right throughout the shores of the Atlantic Ocean. The writings of Plato also states that when the sinking occurred, the sea became mud and was impassable in places. Those who do not believe this tidal and storm power is possible, to these people I say read up on the events of Krakatoa which is a relatively recent event and well documented and proved, or the Earthquakes creating the Tsunamis in Japan put forth the same inclement weather conditions. It is well documented how earthquakes in the mid pacific creates enormous waves that affect the American Coastline and also the Japanese coastline. To those who dismiss the idea of a country disappearing overnight, go to your public library and check how many islands have come and gone in literally minutes.

Atlantis as a civilization lasted for a period of approx 800,000 years. During this time many events that occurred there are presumed to have happened in the Middle East and elsewhere. This is simply because the academics of the day presumed so. There was no support to any of these academic statements by actual evidence of any kind. Over the years the Church knowing no better taught this biased view and so it has come to be accepted. There are now schools of thought rebelling against this unproven guessing game and want more accurate facts. More and more the great writers like Plato are beginning to gain more credibility as their stories are slowly beginning to make more and more sense.

Over the period of these thousands of years, Atlantis colonised all over the world. This is where the unexplained wonders of the world were designed, and their technology used to construct such wonders, in fact it would almost impossible for great advances not to occur in the length of time the civilization existed. The colonies extended from South America, North America and Canada, throughout Europe, Egypt, Asia, Australia and Africa. The fact is that there was not a place on earth that a colony of Atlantis did not exist. The wealth of the continent was fabulous. The soils were rich, weather was mild, gold, silver and such were plentiful, and above all technology was brilliant. Buildings were ornate and beautiful, many constructed with beautiful white marble available on the island continent, and sickness was minimal. Life was pleasant and easy.

Because the greed in human nature is what it is, and has yet to be completely overcome, the wonders and grandeur of the Atlantean civilization were not enough for the majority of the population. They wanted more. This set the stage for a major part of the population to start a moral degeneration into the depths of maliciousness and depravity. To this point the wondrous technology, and conditions were to become ignored in favour of pure Greed. It was at this time the Atlantean Continent was about to disappear from the face of the earth. Just before the sinking there was one man who did much to cause the ruin of the final civilization. Conditions favoured this sadistic general who went by the name of Vardek, (who incidentally later reincarnated as Alaric, and again later on as Hitler). In all cases this entity is an agent of Karma and as such is a destroyer of civilizations. As Hitler he succeeded in doing what he was meant to do and his time was then over. Now the Earth will change for the better after the present time of Pisces has elapsed and Aquarius takes over. Right throughout history and before written history, all tyrants who try to rule the world first destroy all information centres, and all books and records are destroyed to try to keep the people under the thumb. This is borne out by Genghis Khan, Hitler, Napoleon, the Russian revolution, the French revolution, and it goes on and on ad infinitum back into antiquity. Atlantis was no exception to this, and thus one of the reasons why so much knowledge was lost.

Not all in Atlantis were unaware of the advantages of the knowledge and wonders of the continent. There were those people who upheld the teachings of The Holy Ones. These prophets of old were warned and they escaped with knowledge to form many of the schools of secret Esoteric learning. They went to Ireland, Scotland, and England to form the Celtic beliefs and lore, and some went down to Africa on the North West coast. A point of interest here is that if you compare the language of some Northern African tribes, with the Gaelic language of the Celtic people, there are similarities to many to be accidental. In fact they can converse and understand each other quite well. These teachings and lore from Atlantis are the basis of the Rosicrucians, Masons, true Christianity, true Hinduism and many other eastern schools of wisdom. The two head keepers of this ancient wisdom escaped the wrath of the Holy Ones when the Atlantic island was decimated. Helios was the male polarity keeper and Netziachos was the female keeper. Both of these people are destined to become Avatars in the future of the world. A close associate of these two was a priestess named Marah. Marah later incarnated as Nefertiti, and later again as Mary the mother of Jesus. These people were from the Sun temple in Atlantis where the secrets of the Ancient Wisdom were safely stored. These secrets of wisdom were kept from the masses who would use this knowledge for their own greedy and selfish purposes, and to the detriment of others. The Keepers were obeying the statement that Jesus would utter in future years to come “Do not caste your pearls before swine”. Helios and Netziachos were polarity partners and became husband and wife. These were the highest initiates (Bishops) of the Sun Temple. To the best of my knowledge their boat carried initiates of every level two of each, one male and one female. In the boat were two of every animal necessary for milk, eggs etc necessary for human sustenance, their pets, and feed for all these animals. Can this possibly be the basis of Noah and his wife and family and animals? Think on this; use your intuition and judge for yourself. It is interesting to note that Ireland became known as “the Island of The Sun” after the Sun Temple people landed there. The Celtic ancient wisdom was taught here, and some of the ancient mounds discovered with temple and rooms beneath them were from these immigrants of Atlantis. The Gaelic language is the old language of Atlantis, but because of separation over time differs slightly in Wales, Ireland and Scotland. As stated before, a dialect of Gaelic language is spoken in North Africa by some of the old tribes.

England where more of the Sun Temple people landed became known as “The Merlin’s enclosure”. These immigrants from Atlantis (the true builders of Stonehenge) became known as the Wessex, later to become known as the Druids. The highest spiritual position in England became known as The Merlin, just as Roman church has their Pope. A Merlin still exists to this day in the Druid circles, despite the erroneous stories that Druids died out years ago.

Atlantis was purposely sunk by ritual, which was performed by four very high and holy great beings. It was with a very heavy heart that God’s Avatar of that time, Sanat Kumara, along with three others obeyed the Cosmic Deific will to destroy Atlantis. (Is this the story of the great flood in Genesis???) This was directed from high Angelic levels, and sadly because of behavioural patterns of humanity, necessary for the cleansing of certain entities and the planet, and also to give lessons from the earth entity to those who survived.

Atlantis disappeared completely beneath the waves in 10039 BC, and the last colonial outpost submerging soon after (9860 BC) was known as Argent (the silver isle). The area where Argent was is now known today as the Dogger Bank just off the English coast. On this isle there was a company of 108 people known as the company of silver. These people shall be the disciples and attendants of the new Avatar (who we shall call Sophia, but this is not her true name) due in the year 2156.

Atlantis actually had four disasters during its existence. The original Atlantis occupied most of the Atlantic Ocean. A sinking in 120,000 BC era took a large slice of this under the waves. The next sinking was in the 80,000 BC era where another large slice went under leaving a large centre island with 360 reasonably small islands around it. The third sinking was 75,000 BC era, and this left only the large centre island and a few relatively small islands around it. This island continent was then known by the names of Ruta, Poseidon, Atland, and also the most popular at present Atlantis. The final sinking in 10039 BC is the one that all the stories of Genesis and Plato are remembering.

Australia at the early time of the Atlantic civilization was actually part of a civilization known as Mu or Lemuria. At this time of Atlantis merging with Lemuria, the Australian Aboriginal civilization was at its peak having completed the change from its dreamtime to the physical state. It is interesting to note that the Boomerang used by these people is aerodynamically almost perfect in its design. The aerodynamics used here could hardly be described as the work of a primitive backward tribe as the Australian Aboriginal was supposed to be. As the Atlantean civilization evolved it gradually took over the Lemurian civilization.

Buried beneath sands of time there are the remains of an Atlantean colony yet to be found just north East of Perth. This fact fits in with old Aboriginal lore. Is this just one more Aboriginal dreamtime myth, or will it in time be proved to be a fact?