

PYRAMID FACTS

The great pyramid was constructed by Atlanteans approx 75,000 years B.C. The location was exact and precise to the inch and the last degree. It faces perfect north when built, and was never a tomb as archaeologists like to presume. The measurements were based on cosmic measurements and not as some ridiculous stories have it, a pharaoh's thumb or length of elbow to hip garbage. The construction methods are certainly not as the historians tell. There are sections of stone that fit no known stone or quarry type in the world. This is simply because in certain places within the pyramid many types of stone were homogenised into a plastic state and moulded. This accounts for the perfection of smoothness in some places inside the pyramid. The original finished pyramid had a slightly flat top, on which was mounted a solid gold pyramid perfectly in line with the shape of the outer walls of polished limestone. On the top of this gold section was a perfect pyramid shaped diamond. This then because of the perfect lining of the north and south, the resonant measurements of every part, the coupling of three different materials registering active passive and neutral in correct proportions (a trinity) gave out a certain energy resonating with the earth's magnetic field. This is why to this very day electronic instruments go haywire within the pyramid due to these residual energies. The purpose of this pyramid was many fold. One use was that it was an initiating temple for the students of the mysteries, and entry could only be accomplished through astral psychic travel. The fact that entry was only by astral projection gave the initiate a safe place of meditation and test without any chance of interruption. Jesus underwent nine levels of initiation in this pyramid when taught the Egyptian mysteries. Another use was that it could be used by the consciousness to time travel. It was also used as a power source but today the energy is not understood or usable by humanity as they have lost the full perspective of what the Pyramid is all about.

There are supposed to be many more smaller chambers within the pyramid that as yet are undiscovered. There is a school of thought that beneath the pyramid, the structure tapers down in an exact mirrored replica of what is above. Scientists count this as fabrication, but they cannot prove this at present because of the craziness of their seismograph instruments going crazy with the strange energies present, and they are too stubborn to admit such a possibility as them being ignorant of the true purpose of the pyramid.

Many of the heavy slabs were moved by an energy called vrill power, lost to today's civilisation except for a few high initiates scattered throughout the world. This power will remain secret at present, for its use could be disastrous in the hands of anyone but a divine personage such as the master Jesus or other divine messengers. If measurements of the pyramid are studied astounding facts will be revealed as to the knowledge of the universe that must have been known to get the construction as it is. The inner chambers are for definite purposes of earthing energies, stellar projection etc. The full extent of this shall be only open to initiates as they earn the right to this knowledge.
